Young people and their families can enjoy a jam packed day of activities including;

- Giant games
- Balloon race
- Indoor gym
- Face painting
- Prizes, raffles, tombola and games
- Dino the Dinosaur
- Humberside Fire and Rescue

The week of free events has been arranged by Shoreline and their partners Stamford Homes as they continue to undertake the multi-million pound transformation of the neighbourhood.

Over the next eight years the neighbourhood will be turned into a housing showpiece for the town including over 400 new homes with associated open space, play area and traffic calming measures.

Shoreline tenant and resident support officer Claire Tunstall said: "This is a chance to bring the whole community together. We've worked so closely with residents and they've had a real input in the redevelopment so far.

"This gives us a chance to celebrate the progress we have made, look towards the exciting future of this neighbourhood and simply have fun."

The event will take place between Noon and 4pm on Saturday October 27, 2007 at the Yarborough Resource Centre, Central Parade and admission is free.

All children under 10 must be accompanied by a parent or guardian.
